CONSTITUTION
LINGUISTIC SOCIETY OF AMERICA

AS AMENDED TO THE END OF 1960

ARTICLE I. NAME AND OBJECT

1. This Society shall be known as the LINGUISTIC SOCIETY OF AMERICA.
2. Its object shall be the advancement of the scientific study of language.

ARTICLE II. MEMBERS

1. There shall be six classes of members: regular members, student members, life members, benefactors (all the foregoing to be known as active members), honorary members, and subscribing members.

2. Any person may become a regular member by vote of the Executive Committee and payment of dues for the year in which his membership is to begin.

3. On or before December 31 of each year, each regular member shall pay to the Treasurer an annual fee as dues, in an amount fixed by vote of the Society on recommendation of the Executive Committee. If a member does not pay his dues within the time prescribed, he shall forfeit the rights of membership (as hereafter specified) while his default continues; but these rights shall be restored to him on the payment of all arrears. A member in default for two years shall be dropped from membership. A member may pay his dues in advance for one or more years, and such dues shall be considered as paid in full regardless of any change in the amount of dues voted by the Society after the date on which they were paid.

4. Any undergraduate or graduate student enrolled in the regular academic year as a candidate for a degree in a North American college or university may become a student member by vote of the Executive Committee and payment of dues for the year in which his membership is to begin. An individual who has held student membership under the above conditions for not less than two years and who thereafter resides outside the United States and Canada may, on application to the Secretary, continue his membership by annual payment of the amount fixed for student membership. The entertainment of applications for such continuation shall be at the discretion of the Secretary.

5. On or before December 31 of each year, each student member shall pay to the Treasurer an annual fee as dues, in an amount fixed by vote of the Society on recommendation of the Executive Committee, this amount in any case to be less than the dues required of regular members in the same year. Except for the amount of dues, all the provisions of Section 3 shall apply also to student members. In the year after that in which a student member ceases to be a regularly enrolled student in a college or university, he shall become a regular member and shall be liable for the higher dues. Except in cases otherwise ruled on by the Executive Committee, student membership shall be limited to a maximum of six years.

6. Any regular member who has retired for age from the active exercise of his profession may, by vote of the Society on recommendation of the Executive Committee, be relieved from the further payment of dues, without losing any of the rights of regular membership.

7. Any regular member may become a life member by payment at one time, in addition to the dues for the current year, of a sum equivalent to twenty times the dues then in force, less half the amount already paid by him in annual dues.

8. Any regular member or life member may become a benefactor by payment at one time of a sum not less than fifty times the dues then in force.

9. Any foreign scholar of distinction in linguistic studies, not resident in North America, may be elected an honorary member, on recommendation of the Executive Committee, by a vote of five-sixths of the members present at the annual business session of the Society. The total number of honorary members shall not exceed twenty-five; and not more than three may be elected in any one year.

10. Any library, institution, or business firm may become a subscribing member by payment of dues for the year in which its membership is to begin. Subscribing members shall pay annual dues in the same amount as regular members.

11. The rights of membership are as follows. All members receive gratis the regular publications of the Society, comprising the journal LANGUAGE and its Supplements (Language Monographs, Language Dissertations, and Bulletins of the Executive Committee). All members are entitled to a discount from the list price of the Society's special publications, and from the price of regular publications in purchasing back numbers and additional copies, the size of the discount to be determined from time to time by the Treasurer. All members except subscribing members may submit articles, reviews, and longer works to the Committee on Publications, to be considered as possible contributions to the journal, the series of Language Monographs or Language Dissertations, or the series of special publications. All members except subscribing members may offer to the Executive Committee papers for oral presentation at meetings of the Society. Regular members, life members, and benefactors may participate in the annual business meetings of the Society, may nominate candidates for and vote in the Society's elections, and may hold offices in the Society. Benefactors have the privilege of naming as their beneficiary a library which without further payment of dues shall be in perpetuity a subscribing member of the Society.

12. The enjoyment of these rights is contingent upon the payment of annual dues as provided in Sections 3, 5, and 10, except that this requirement is waived for honorary members, benefactors, life members, regular members relieved from the further payment of dues in accordance with the provisions of Section 6, and subscribing members named as beneficiaries in accordance with the provisions of Section 11.

13. The sums received by the Treasurer as fees of life members and benefactors shall be set aside as endowment, and shall be invested in interest-bearing securities, only the income thereof to be used for current expenses, including those of publication. The trustees of the endowment fund shall be the Treasurer and two other members of the Society appointed by the Executive Committee.

Article III. Administration

1. The Officers shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer.

2. There shall be an Executive Committee, composed of the above Officers and six other members of the Society, two of the six being elected each year to serve for three years each, and to be ineligible for immediate re-election. Between annual meetings of the Society the Executive Committee shall have power to take any action that the Society itself could take; but all its acts must be reported to the Society at the next annual meeting. The Secretary may on his own initiative, and shall at the request of any other member of the Committee, ask the Executive Committee to vote upon specific questions by mail, and if a majority of the Committee shall vote by mail for or against any measure thus submitted that vote shall be decisive. All former officers and all persons who have been members of the Executive Committee within the last preceding five years shall have the right to attend meetings of the Executive Committee, but they shall not have the right to vote. If any member of the Executive Committee does not attend a meeting of the Committee, he may, by written proxy, appoint a member of the Society to attend and to vote in his stead. But no one person shall by virtue of holding proxies have the right to cast more than one vote.

3. There shall be a Committee on Publications, which shall consist of the Editor (who shall act as chairman) and three other members of the Society. One member of the Committee on Publications shall be elected at each annual meeting of the Society and he shall serve for three years.

4. There shall be a Nominating Committee consisting of three members, one of them being elected each year to serve for three years. The member whose term is about to expire shall act as chairman.

5. The Officers and the Editor shall be elected annually. All elections shall be conducted as follows: The Nominating Committee shall nominate one person for each position to be filled at the annual election, and the Secretary shall, at least two months before the annual meeting, mail to the membership notices of these nominations. Any regular member, life member, or benefactor may nominate a member of the Society as candidate for an office to be filled. If the Secretary receives, not later than three weeks before the annual meeting, six or more letters of nomination of the same candidate for the same position, such candidate shall have equal standing with the one nominated by the Nominating Committee, but the names of the members who nominated him shall not be published by the Secretary. The Secretary shall inquire of each person nominated in either of the two ways just prescribed, whether he will serve if elected. Unless an affirmative reply is received from such a person, his name shall be stricken from the list of nominees. Additional nominations may be made from the floor, provided that each such nomination be seconded by five members of the Society in order to be valid, and provided that evidence be presented that such a nominee will serve if elected. If there are two or more nominees for any position, voting for that position shall be by secret ballot.

Article IV. Groups

To meet the needs of scholars with specialized linguistic interests, Groups may be organized, on terms approved by the Executive Committee. The Society shall, through its officers and members, cooperate with the Groups in the furtherance of their aims.

Article V. Meetings

1. There shall be an annual meeting of the Society, at such time and place as shall be determined at a previous meeting, or by the Executive Committee.
2. The Executive Committee shall make all arrangements for the annual meetings.
3. The Executive Committee may call special meetings.
4. Titles and descriptions of papers to be read before the Society must be submitted to the Executive Committee beforehand, and their disposition of such papers, including a possible limitation of the time to be devoted to them, shall be final.

Article VI. Publication

1. The Committee on Publications shall have charge of all publications of the Society, and shall have power to order their publication upon certification of the Treasurer that sufficient money is available.
2. Nothing in this Article shall prevent the publication of occasional bulletins by the Executive Committee.

Article VII. Amendments

1. Amendments to this Constitution may be made by vote of two-thirds of the members present at any annual meeting of the Society, provided that a proposed amendment has been presented in writing to the Secretary, signed by at least three members of the Society, not less than four months before the meeting.
2. The Secretary shall mail to the membership of the Society, at least one month before the annual meeting, the text of any proposed amendment that has been properly presented in accordance with Section 1 above.

All sessions of the meeting except the Dinner were held in the Auditorium of Batts Hall.

THE FIRST SESSION was called to order at 9 A.M. on Friday, 29 July, by the President, Mr. Trager. About 225 persons were present. Papers 1–6 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 12 noon.

THE SECOND SESSION was called to order at 1 P.M. by the Vice-President, Mr. Nida. About 200 persons were present. Papers 7–13 were read and discussed. The session adjourned at 4:50 P.M.

THE DINNER for members of the Society and their guests took place in the University Tea House at 7 P.M. It was followed at 8:30 P.M. by the annual Collitz Lecture, delivered in Batts Hall Auditorium by Mr. Hamp: On the Horizon of Reconstruction. About 200 persons were present. Before the meeting the following greeting from J. Alton Burdine, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Texas, was read:

I regret that I must resort to the written word to perform a most pleasant duty at this time. It is a privilege for me to extend, on behalf of The University of Texas, a warm welcome to such a distinguished group—the members of the Linguistic Society of America and the participants in the Linguistic Institute. And it is particularly fitting that this welcome should be given on the night when the distinguished president of your Society is the speaker. Those of us in the University's administration have great pride in our Linguistic Program and in those eminent members of the faculty who have developed it. Hence, we are especially proud that the Linguistic Institute was awarded to the University this summer and that the Linguistic Society is meeting on our campus. We hope that your stay with us this summer proves so pleasant and profitable that you will not hesitate to return in the future.

THE THIRD SESSION was called to order at 9 A.M. on Saturday, 30 July, by Mr. Trager. Papers 14–19 were read and discussed. About 100 persons were present. The session adjourned at 12 noon.

THE FOURTH SESSION was called to order at 1 P.M. by Mr. Nida. Papers 20–22 were read and discussed. About 125 persons were present. Before the end of the session, the Committee on Resolutions (Mr. Hamilton chm., Mr. Cowgill, Mr. Harrell) presented the following resolutions which were passed by acclamation:

The Linguistic Society of America expresses its gratitude to the University of Texas for its gracious hospitality. The members of the Society have enjoyed alike the friendly atmosphere and the splendid physical facilities placed at their disposal.

The Linguistic Society expresses its gratitude to the Director of the Linguistic Institute, Professor Archibald Hill, to the Associate Director, Professor W. Freeman Twaddell, and to the Assistant Director, Professor Stanley Werbow, who accepted the responsibility for both the curricular and extracurricular activities of the meeting and to whom we are all indebted for its success.

The Linguistic Society of America expresses its gratitude and admiration to Professor Eric Hamp for the brilliance and profundity of his Collitz Lecture.

The Linguistic Society of America expresses its profound regret that its past President, Professor E. Adelaide Hahn, was prevented by illness from attending this meeting. The Society looks forward eagerly to enjoying once again in future meetings the presence of her sound scholarship and lively wit.

The session adjourned at 2:30 P.M. Following adjournment there was a reception for the members of the Society, the Linguistic Institute, and their guests given by the Associate Director and Director of the Institute.

A complete list of papers presented at this meeting follows:

1. Sydney M. Lamb (University of California, Berkeley): Can syntactic analysis be mechanized? Discussion by Lehmann, Longacre, Pittman, Nida, Pike, Joos.

THE ANNUAL INFORMAL BANQUET for members and their guests was held at 7:30 P.M. in a special dining hall of the hotel, with about 93 persons present. After the banquet, Mr. Trager read the Presidential Address, Linguistics is Linguistics.

THE BUSINESS MEETING (THIRD SESSION) was called to order by Mr. Trager at 9 A.M. on Friday, 30 December; the minutes of the preceding meeting were called for. The Secretary reported that the minutes of the Thirty-Fourth Annual Meeting, held in Chicago on 28–29 December 1959, had appeared in Bulletin No. 33 and had been duly distributed to the membership, and that the minutes of the Twenty-Second Summer Meeting, held in Austin on 29–30 July 1960, would appear in Bulletin No. 34. It was voted that the reading of the minutes be omitted and that they be accepted.

The Secretary then presented the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed.

The active membership was last reported to the Society on 15 December 1959 as 1633. In 1960 there were 235 new members and 5 reinstatements. Fifty-two were dropped for non-payment of dues, and 44 resigned: H. A. Basilius, J. P. Blum, C. G. Bowen, O. Chiyoshi, J. D. Ellenberger, D. H. El Sayed, N. G. Esteves, H. Eto, P. Forchheimer, P. H. Furfey, F. Harary, R. A. Haynes, D. R. Hitchcock, Sylvia Jeffery, A. R. Kelkar, M. Kloster-Jensen, Marta Koppel, C. H. Kraft, G. G. Lovinger, S. Masuyama, W. Matheson, I. Matsuoka, M. A. Mehendale, S. Morita, O. H. Mowrer, J. L. Nadeau, T. H. Nelson, S. E. Newman, P. R. Olson, K. B. Palmer, L. Reid, G. E. Roffe, Ellen Ross, D. Sacks, J. D. Singh, T. D. Sterling, H. Takahashi, Atsuko Tani, Minoru Ueda, A. Weatherby, M. P. Wechter, Ellen Wilde, K. Yasuhiro, R. W. Young.

We record with sorrow the death of nine regular members: Mima Babington, L. C. Barret, C. U. Clark, Cornelia Coulter, B. Emsley, G. T. Flom, G. A. Kennedy, A. Kotsevalov, A. L. Kroeber. (Three of these were listed with the date of death in the 1959 list, and are therefore not included in the 1960 list.)

During 1960 we had, then, a total membership of 1777, of whom 1768 were active on 15 December. The net gain (on the basis of year-end active memberships) was 135 as against 133 for the preceding year.

On 15 December 1959 we had 24 active Honorary Members. During 1960 the death of Professor Vendryès reduced this total to 23.

Domestic Library subscriptions were 342, of which 48 were new. There were 9 failures to renew. Foreign Library subscriptions were 472. There were 41 failures to renew. Subscribing Libraries in 1960 totalled 814. The net gain was 64.

The total net gain in subscriptions, personal and library, is thus 199 as against a net gain of 192 for 1959.

The Treasurer presented a summary of the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed, subject to completion of the Auditors' Report for inclusion in the Bulletin.[1]

[1] We have examined the Schedule of Assets and Liabilities and the Profit and Loss Statement submitted by the Treasurer of the Linguistic Society of America for the period 15 December 1959 to 15 December 1960, and consider, from a check of the entries in the Ledger, that the Schedule and the Statement are correct.

On behalf of the Executive Committee, Mr. Hill then presented the following report:

During the year the Executive Committee selected the papers for the Thirty-Fifth Annual Meeting.

The Executive Committee held its regular summer meeting at 8:00 P.M., 28 July 1960, in the lounge of the English Building on the campus of the University of Texas, Austin, Texas. Present were G. L. Trager, President; A. A. Hill, Secretary; G. P. Faust, and W. E. Welmers. R. S. Harrell, S. M. Lamb, N. A. McQuown, and W. F. Twaddell were proxies for W. M. Austin, S. E. Martin, J. H. Sledd, and F.-K. Li, respectively. E. P. Hamp and M. Joos were present by constitutional provision, but without vote.

The Committee took the following actions:

1. Elected new members, nos. 3118 to 3253.

2. Granted permission to Sol Saporta to republish two items from LANGUAGE: L. Bloomfield, A Set of postulates for the science of language, 2.153–64 (1926); and C. F. Hockett, review of C. L. Shannon and W. Weaver, The Mathematical theory of communication, 29.69–93 (1953). The items are to be published in a collection of readings in psycholinguistics.

3. Discussed at length the recommendations of the Committee on the Place of the Linguistic Institute (H. M. Hoenigswald, chairman, G. S. Lane, M. S. Beeler). The Committee had received firm invitations for 1961 from Columbia, Michigan, Texas, and Washington. After full discussion, the Executive Committee voted to accept the Texas invitation. In this action the Committee was guided by two principles which it reaffirmed as a general governing policy for the Institute; first, that the Institute should normally be continued for two years at universities which act as hosts for the first time; second, the Institute should rotate geographically so as to continue to support linguistic programs throughout the country.

The Committee expressed its intention to adopt a policy of final decision on the place of the Institute at the Christmas meetings, a year and a half before the Institute so decided upon.

4. Voted to grant LSA sponsorship to the Inter-American Congress of Linguists proposed by the Social Science Research Council to take place at the same time and place as the Linguistic Institute in 1961.

5. Voted to use the income from the Regular LSA endowment to supplement the salary of a faculty member of the Institute in future. Such faculty members will normally come from overseas, and will represent any field of linguistics. The chair occupied by the faculty member whose salary is thus supplemented will be known as the Linguistic Society of America Professorship.

6. Received proposed amendments to the Constitution from the Committee for Constitutional Revision (A. A. Hill chairman, E. P. Hamp, W. F. Twaddell; E. Adelaide Hahn absent by reason of illness). It was voted that the Secretary be instructed to submit these amendments to the membership as provided in the Constitution.

7. Voted to increase to three hundred sixty dollars per annum the sum allowed the Secretary for clerical assistance.

The Executive Committee held its regular meeting on Wednesday, 28 December 1960, at 7:00 P.M. in suite 1002 of the Hotel Bond in Hartford, Connecticut, preceding the Annual Meeting. Present were G. L. Trager, President; E. A. Nida, Vice-President; A. A. Hill, Secretary; Messrs. Sledd, Faust, Li, Austin, and Welmers. Mr. Lamb was proxy for Mr. Martin. Present by constitutional provision but without vote were Messrs. Haugen, Joos, Hoenigswald, Bloch, and Whatmough, and Miss Hahn. Mr. Gleason was present by invitation.

The Committee took the following actions:

1. Elected new members, nos. 3254–3351.

2. Recommended emeritus status for Messrs. Cochran, Dunham, and Mueller.

3. Considered the proposed constitutional amendments and agreed that the Committee had no objection to them. Mr. Hoenigswald pointed out that the Constitution might in future be amended to provide a more explicit procedure for the replacement of resigned elected officers; but the other members of the Committee agreed that the constitutional provision that the members of the Executive Committee could act for the Society by mail should take care of this for the present.

4. Considered applications for travel grants for joint delegates of the LSA and ACLS to international congresses during 1961. It was agreed that the sole congress at which we wish to be represented in this period was the Congress of Phonetic Sciences to be held in the summer of 1961 in Helsinki. Consequently, six delegates were elected, and have been nominated to the ACLS. The delegates are Cowan, Hill, Harrell, Haugen, Pulgram, and Winter.

There was full discussion of a request by T. A. Sebeok that a grant for travel to this Congress be transferred to an international congress on mechanical translation. The Committee was convinced neither that this was a congress at which the Society required representation nor that Mr. Sebeok could not find support for his travel elsewhere.

Mr. Nida proposed that the Society publish in its journal an annual notice of the fact that some support for delegates to international congresses is available. It was also proposed that the Secretary should then establish a committee which would evaluate the applications, but whose membership would be unknown to the persons applying.

5. Received news of the establishment of a Julia Bloch Memorial Fund and discussed the disposition thereof. It was voted that the fund be invested in the Federal Credit Union of the University of Texas under suitable arrangements so that the Society's interest in the fund would be fully protected. The Committee planned to let the fund accumulate until it should reach a sum of approximately $5000, at which time the interest from it might be used for an annual Summer Study Aid; since Julia Bloch was herself one of the first holders of such a fellowship, this use seemed highly appropriate. It was also agreed that the Secretary should once again address all members of the Society, making known to them the outcome of the request for the establishment of the fund, and its eventual disposition.

6. Voted to accept the invitation of the University of Washington for the Linguistic Institute in Seattle during the summers of 1962 and 1963, and to express deep regret that the Society was forced to decline the invitations of Michigan, Indiana, and Georgetown. It was also stated that the Society should be very careful in the future not to express any implications about the place of the Linguistic Institute before a final disposition is reached.

7. Voted to await the report of our delegate, C. A. Ferguson, to the meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English, which is to consider the National Defense Education Act and possible revisions thereof.

8. Voted to establish the committee requested by the Secretary in his letter of 24 October 1960, but to name it a Committee on Information in the Field of Linguistics, rather than a Committee to Survey Needs in Linguistic Research. The Secretary was empowered to approach the ACLS and ask for whatever funds might be needed for the meetings of such a committee and for clerical help or other assistance necessary for preparing a meaningful report.

9. Voted to reactivate the committee on the Free List, and to put the Russian scholar, V. V. Ivanov, on the List.

10. Reappointed the following committees, committee members, and delegates to succeed themselves without change: Messrs. Ferguson chm., Hamp, and Pulgram, Committee on Honorary Members (through 1961); Werner Winter, member of the Standing Committee on Research (through 1963); Clarence L. Barnhart, delegate to the American Association for the Advancement of Science (through 1961); Norman A. McQuown, delegate to the Mexican Council for Indigenous Languages (through 1961); J Milton Cowan, delegate to the American Council of Learned Societies (through 1962).

11. Approved the following appointments for the Linguistic Institute of 1961 at the University of Texas: Alf Sommerfelt of the University of Oslo as Collitz Professor, W. Sidney Allen of the University of Cambridge as LSA Professor, George L. Trager of the University of Buffalo as Associate Director.

12. Discussed the Treasurer's Report, and agreed that it should be published in full in the Bulletin, as usual, but abridged in reading to the Society.

13. Discussed the Secretary's Report and accepted it.

14. Voted that the Bulletin should appear with issue No. 3 of the journal in 1961.[2]

15. Voted that the next annual meeting of the Society should be held in Chicago.

16. Voted that a committee be appointed to study once again the general policy of annual meetings, taking up such questions as the possibility of joint meetings with other societies, dates other than those in the Christmas-New-Year's week, and any other matters which would seem of interest to the Society.

After discussion, it was voted that the report be received and filed.

Acting on the Executive Committee's recommendation, the Society voted to exempt from further payment of dues the three members named in the report: Messrs. Cochran, Dunham, and Mueller.

As Editor of LANGUAGE and Chairman of the Committee on Publication, Mr. Bloch presented the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed:

During the year the Society issued the following publications:

LANGUAGE, Volume 36; 561 pages.

Bulletin No. 33; 111 pages.

Dissertation No. 56: The grammatical hierarchy of Isthmus Zapotec, by Velma Bernice Pickett; 101 pages. This work was prepared for the press by Warren Cowgill, acting as the Editor's proxy.

Index to Language 31-35 (1955-1959), by Wallace L. Chafe; 84 pages.

As usual, I must express here my profound thanks to the three scholars who have undertaken to proofread our publications: Warren Cowgill, Werner Winter, and Howard Garey.

[2] Unforeseen delays in the preparation of copy for this Bulletin in the Secretary's office have resulted in a still later nominal date of publication.

Their services to the Society—voluntary, devoted, and heavily burdensome—are of far more value than I can properly describe here. At any rate, they are not thankless.

The Society then received the report of Mr. Moulton, chairman of the ACLS Committee on Language Programs, which pointed out that the program of summer study aids was assured only through 1962, and that it was desirable that the members supply him with as many good arguments in support of continuation of the program as they could.

The Society then received from its delegate, Mr. Kurath, a report of the First International Congress of Dialectology at Louvain and Brussels (21–27 August 1960). A copy of Mr. Kurath's report follows:

Attendance at the First International Congress of Dialectology at Louvain and Brussels was a most valuable experience to me. It was my first opportunity to meet face to face with many scholars whose work I had been reading, to listen to their reports on past achievements in the various language areas, to learn what research is now in progress, and to find out what their future plans and hopes are. It was a good idea, in my opinion, to devote the meeting of the first congress of dialectologists largely to taking stock of the entire field.

One hopes that at future meetings the discussion will be focused on methodological problems such as these: phonic vs. phonemic recording, the evaluation of isoglosses, the construction of dialect maps on properly evaluated isoglosses, the need of supplementing the records of folk speech with recordings of middle class usage as a basis for tracing influences from one social level to another, the interrelations between areal and structural linguistics (synchronic as well as diachronic), etc. Little was offered along these lines.

The meetings were well attended, although Russia and its satellites sent no representatives and the Sprachatlas group refrained from attending. This should be remedied in the future.

Your delegate would also suggest that future meetings of the dialectologists should be more sharply restricted to their field of research, partly to avoid diffuseness, partly to avoid conflict with the International Congress of Linguists. The meeting time might with profit be reduced to two or three days.

All dialectologists owe thanks to the enthusiasm and the energy of Sever Pop, who made this first meeting possible.

In addition, a report was received from a second delegate, Uriel Weinreich, part of which is here given:

You will recall that the American Council of Learned Societies awarded me a travel grant to attend the First International Congress of General Dialectology held in Louvain and Brussels on 21–27 August 1960. This is an informal report on the Congress.

My own participation consisted of a paper on Geographic Differentiation in Co-territorial Languages: Preliminary Result of the Yiddish Dialect Atlas. I also attended section meetings regularly during three out of the five days during which the Congress was in session.

I was grateful for the opportunity of meeting with the large number of colleagues in fields related to my own. I was especially interested in a number of papers—one American, one Yugoslav, and one Italian—bearing on the problem of structural dialectology. (This is a topic on which I began a discussion in an article published in 1954, and it is satisfying to see the discussion taken up by other scholars.) Another good feature of the Congress was the exhibit of dialectological works, including a large collection of linguistic atlases.

On the other hand, the Congress lacked a unifying theme and the directors applied no standards in the admission of papers and exhibits. Even if there had been selection, I doubt whether 'general dialectology' makes a useful theme for a congress. I respectfully suggest that the Linguistic Society of America consider whether it should in the future send official delegates to congresses organized in this fashion.

The Society next received a report from Mr. Lehmann, its delegate to the Second International Congress of Germanists, held 21–27 August 1960 in Copenhagen. The report follows:

Two types of papers were given at the Congress: Hauptreferate, about an hour in length, and individual papers, which were divided into five sections. A full report on the papers given in the sections is already available in the Zusammenfassungen der Einzelreferate. The Hauptreferate will be published later in full.

Officials of the Congress chose to concentrate on one theme, Spätzeiten. The first paper, given by the 2d vice-president of IVG, Werner Kohlschmidt of Bern, dealt with Die Problematik der Spätzeitlichkeit. After a few papers, the theme seemed stale, but on the other hand it gave the meeting some of the unity which is generally lacking in meetings of learned organizations. The theme had the further disadvantage of luring some speakers into interpreting anything as a Spätzeitsphänomen. On the other hand some papers, like that of Fuchs of Strassburg, Goethes Spaetzeit, dealt with a chosen chronological period without elaborating on the central theme. In general the papers were on a level with those given at the MLA, somewhat to the surprise of younger participants, who expected better things of the scholars in the fatherland.

About 300 members attended, 25 from the U. S. A. Of these Lange gave a Hauptreferat: Ausklang des 18. Jahrhunderts. Henel, Lehmann, Penzl, Reichardt, and Tubach gave scheduled papers in the sections, and Blaisdell's proposed paper was added to the program. The Danes were very cordial hosts. The next Congress will apparently be held in Amsterdam in 1965. Members who were at the first Congress in Rome were much pleased by the increase in attendance. The Congress seems established as an organization through which one can learn what is going on in our profession.

Mr. Lehmann, the Society's delegate to the 25th Congress of Orientalists in Moscow, 9–16 August 1960, presented the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed.

There were twenty sections of the Congress, five of these further subdivided into two groups each. A comprehensive account of the activities could only be made on the basis of the proceedings, which I understand are to be published. The sections were set up by geographical location, e.g. Iran, Turkey, India, so that there were additional difficulties for anyone who wished to hear the papers in one field, such as linguistics. Probably there will be no remedy for the tremendous number of sections until the hodgepodge remainders from favored fields (i.e. the Orientalists) break up into reasonable groups, such as Indologists, Arabists, Africanists, and the like. The new political arrangements in various areas studied by the 'Orientalists' may help scholars who are planning smaller groups on rational bases.

For a linguist, one of the most impressive features of the Congress was the number of excellent papers given by young Russian linguists: Ivanov on Hittite word-formation, Gamkrelidze on the origin of the Hittite script, Elizarenkova on the category of tense in the Rigveda. Apparently the period of conservatism which followed the rejection of Marr is now over. These young linguists and others are zealous structuralists as well as eclectics from all contemporary theory.

Another impressive feature was the number of linguistic works which were displayed at the Congress. In addition to the well-known dictionaries, many new ones came out this year, and others are planned. For scholars of Iranian, the most important materials are now those from the USSR; one of our leading Oriental linguists says that the most eminent Iranian scholars are the Russians. Yet publications are not limited to the languages of the USSR and environs. During the meeting Elizarenkova's monograph on the aorist in the Rigveda appeared. The first volume of the large Germanic grammar has been sent to the printer. The collected essays of Fortunatov are to be followed by those of Baudouin de Courtenay. It is hard to escape the conclusion that all linguists of the future will have to know Russian. There is a strong emphasis on descriptive studies, in spite of the titles cited above.

Twenty-five hundred scholars attended the meeting, including about fifty Americans. The leading American orientalists gave papers in their fields; anyone interested can write them or wait for the publication of the Congress proceedings. Other papers of special interest to linguists may be Hans Vogt's on the phonetic system of Ubykh and Hans Hendriksen's on an area in India in which he examined the various dialects from the point of view of areal linguistics, as well as many on philological subjects. At the time of their presentation, the papers of Russian scholars were available in English or French and Russian. Many Russians presented their papers in English. Scholars attending the Congress may have made off with some of these and may have them available for colleagues.

The Russians were excellent hosts. Various tours and other types of entertainment were arranged, such as an evening of oral epics which were recited by epic poets still practicing this craft in various sections of the USSR. One of them has a repertoire of 500,000 verses, half of which have been recorded. In spite of the strained political situation, Russian scholars and others were very friendly to Americans, whether in Samarkand or in Moscow.

On the other hand, the Congress was used for political purposes. Mikoyan addressed the opening session; Russian scholars who were given time then or in the closing session made no bones about discussing their friendship for underdeveloped countries. The Russians also kept the next Congress from meeting in the U. S., as had been tentatively planned. Bids were made by various other countries, notably the U. A. R. and India. Russia favored the U. A. R., but since the Central Committee could not get a promise of nondiscrimination, India was chosen for the next Congress. Readers of Joseph Alsop know that there was no Chinese delegation. Obvious types of speculation circulated, including that given dogmatically by Alsop; he didn't say that there never had been a Chinese delegation at any previous Congress. There was some discussion among the American delegation about a protest against the political uses to which the Congress was put, but a protest was not made because it seemed useless. After seeing the upper echelon of the Russian delegation in action, one might almost say that international congresses are too important to be left to the scholars.

Mr. Hill as director of the 1960 Linguistic Institute then presented the following report:

The Linguistic Institute of 1960 was held in Austin, Texas, jointly sponsored by the University of Texas and the Linguistic Society of America. The Institute ran for eight weeks, from June 20 to August 12.

The visiting faculty consisted of John C. Catford, University of Edinburgh; W. Nelson Francis, Franklin and Marshall College; Eric P. Hamp, University of Chicago (Collitz Professor); Martin Joos, University of Wisconsin; Byron J. Koekkoek, University of Buffalo; Ralph B. Long, University of Puerto Rico; Norman A. McQuown, University of Chicago; Yakov Malkiel, University of California, Berkeley; Jaan Puhvel, University of California, Los Angeles; W. Freeman Twaddell, Brown University; and William E. Welmers, University of California, Los Angeles. In addition there were the following from the University of Texas staff: H. Ananthanarayana, E. Bagby Atwood, W. Curtis Blaylock, Eva Currie, David DeCamp, Mohammad A. E. Gadalla, Ernest Haden, Mieko Han, Robert T. Harms, Archibald A. Hill, Lee M. Hollander, Kurt Klein, Winfred P. Lehmann, George Skarginsky, Stanley N. Werbow, and Werner Winter. There were in all eleven visitors and sixteen local scholars. The Collitz Professorship was held by Mr. Hamp. Messrs. Hill, Twaddell, and Werbow were Director, Associate Director, and Assistant Director respectively. Besides the above faculty, there were three special guest lecturers, who took part in a seminar on current linguistic theory; they were Robert B. Lees, IBM Research Center; Kenneth L. Pike, University of Michigan and Summer Institute of Linguistics; and George L. Trager, University of Buffalo.

Thirty-six courses were offered, five of them intensive language courses. Seven were basic linguistic courses, five were structural descriptions of individual languages (including English), and two were broad general surveys of language families and groups. There were twelve courses concerned wholly or mainly with history, and five on related fields such as culture and literature. In addition, there was a small advanced seminar, open only by invitation, on problems in syntax. The seminar was organized by Mr. Joos, and was supported through the generosity of the American Council of Learned Societies.

Total enrollment in all courses of the Institute numbered 546. This includes 70 undergraduate elections, 261 graduate elections, 147 student auditings, 45 course visitations by Ph.D. guests, and 23 staff visitations. The 331 course elections for credit involve 204 students, 130 of whom were enrolled in the Institute only. This last group of students, with the twelve holders of the doctorate who received guest privileges, constituted the real core of the Institute.

As usual there was a weekly program of two luncheon lectures and one evening lecture. Guests who lectured in this program included Messrs. Hoenigswald, Pike, Trager, Lees, Khallafallah, Fetouh, and Gamal. Many members of the staff also participated in this program. Average attendance at the luncheon lectures was 100, at the evening lectures 150.

Twenty-five students in the Institute received Summer Study Aids from the American Council of Learned Societies, largely financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation. There were 14 special students from the Philippines, eight supported by the U. S. Office of Education, two by Smith-Mundt and Fulbright programs, and four by the Rockefeller Foundation through the Philippine Center for Language Study of the University of California, Los Angeles. There were in addition four students supported by National Defense Education Act Fellowships.

The Summer Meeting of the Linguistic Society was held on 29 and 30 July. Two hundred forty-two members and guests signed the register. Twenty-two papers were presented at four sessions. The annual Collitz Lecture was delivered by Mr. Hamp in Batts Hall Auditorium to an audience of two hundred.

The Linguistic Institute and the University of Texas acknowledge with gratitude the action of the Ford Foundation and the American Council of Learned Societies in supplying the twenty-five Summer Study Aids and an institutional subsidy of $4,500. We wish also to thank the ACLS for its support of the seminar on syntax mentioned above. Finally, we wish to acknowledge the generosity of the Linguistic Society, which contributed (from the Collitz bequest and from regular endowment) a total of $3,749.27.

Mr. Hill then explained to the members of the Society that owing to unfortunate accidents of weather the report of the Committee on Honorary Memberships had not been received in time to allow the Executive Committee to consider the nominations. Consequently the Society agreed to forego the report of the Committee on Honorary Memberships, but to use it as a basis for a report in the year following.

Mr. Haugen, chairman of the Nominating Committee (Messrs. Haugen, Hamp, Moulton) submitted the following slate:

President: Kenneth L. Pike, University of Michigan
Vice-President: Robert A. Hall Jr., Cornell University
Secretary-Treasurer: Archibald A. Hill, University of Texas
Members of the Executive Committee (through 1963):
Henry A. Gleason, Hartford Seminary Foundation
Henry Lee Smith Jr., University of Buffalo
Editor: Bernard Bloch, Yale University
Member of the Committee on Publications (through 1963):
Warren Cowgill, Yale University
Member of the Nominating Committee (through 1963):
Eugene A. Nida, American Bible Society

The Secretary reported that all nominees of the Nominating Committee had signified their willingness to serve, and that there had been no additional nominations by mail ballot requiring action by the Society. Nominations from the floor were called for, but there were none. The Secretary was accordingly instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for all nominees of the Nominating Committee.

The Society next considered several proposed amendments to the Constitution. It will be recalled that the Executive Committee at its meeting in December 1959 proposed that the Society's constitution be reexamined at intervals of approximately five years, and for this purpose a subcommittee was appointed, consisting of Mr. Hill as chairman, Miss Hahn, Mr. Hamp, and Mr. Twaddell. On 28 July 1960 the subcommittee made its report to the Executive Committee (unfortunately without the aid of Miss Hahn, who had been prevented by illness from attending its meetings). The proposed amendments were then printed and distributed to the members of the Society. Since the members of the Society present at the Annual Meeting in Hartford approved the purpose and arrangement of these amendments, it was agreed to vote on them en bloc, and all were passed. Prefixed to this copy of the Proceedings is a copy of the Constitution as amended to December 1960.

The President appointed a committee on resolutions, composed of Messrs. Bloch chairman, Faust, and Gedney.

The Society then voted to consider a resolution proposed by our member, Mr. Cross. After full discussion, the resolution was passed. A copy of this resolution is here appended.

WHEREAS, The Internal Revenue Service in charge of income tax collection allows a deduction for educational expenses incurred in order to maintain and/or improve skills; and

WHEREAS, Teachers of language are expected to assume the obligation of maintaining contact with their specialty by personal visits to the language area which is their legitimate laboratory; and

WHEREAS, Language teachers, at great financial loss, have for generations followed the practice of incurring, without reimbursement from their schools, colleges, and universities, the cost of foreign travel; and

WHEREAS, The U. S. Treasury Department allows as business deductions such items as advertising, including entertainment and the distribution of prizes, and depletion of oil wells; and

WHEREAS, Public officials and educators have called attention to our deficiency in the field of foreign languages; and

WHEREAS, Our international standing depends in large measure upon the maintenance of the particular national resource embodied in linguistic knowledge and skill; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Linguistic Society of America, at its annual meeting in Hartford, Connecticut on 30 December 1960, call upon the Internal Revenue Service to allow language teachers a reasonable income tax deduction for travel to and from, and sojourn in, the areas which constitute the laboratories of such teachers; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the various language journals throughout the country, to the U. S. Commissioner of Education, and to the press.

Further business, proposed by any member of the Society, was now called for. Since there was none, the session was adjourned at 10:15 A.M.

THE FOURTH SESSION was called to order by Mr. Trager at 10:30 A.M.; about 100 persons were present. Papers 18–21 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 12:05 P.M.

THE FIFTH SESSION was called to order at 1:30 P.M. by Mr. Trager; about 120 persons were present. Papers 22–28 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 5:30 P.M.

THE SIXTH SESSION was called to order at 7:00 P.M. by Mr. Nida. About 125 persons were present. Papers 29–32 were read and discussed, and the meeting was adjourned at 9:00 P.M.

THE SEVENTH SESSION was called to order at 9:00 A.M. on Saturday, 31 December, by Mr. Nida; about 125 persons were present. Papers 33–36 were read and discussed, and the meeting was adjourned at approximately 12 noon. Before the end of the session, Mr. Bloch, for the Committee on Resolutions, presented the following resolution:

The Linguistic Society of America, at the end of an unusually successful and enthusiastic meeting in Hartford, thanks the local committee for its admirable efficiency—and thanks above all our collegue H. A. Gleason, whose efforts in our behalf, supported by the faithful ministrations of his wife and daughter, smoothed the difficulties that inevitably attend a meeting of this kind. We note with gratitude that Mr. Gleason, in his capacity of host, managed to work almost invisibly in the background—except as he was manifest in a pair of remarkable mobiles hung in the anteroom of our banquet hall, whose mobility no less than their ingenuity is a symbol of the linguistic discussions carried on—sometimes vociferously—at this meeting.

We further thank James N. Gettemy, President of the Hartford Seminary Foundation, for the cordiality of the greeting which he extended to us at our banquet.

Finally, we note with pleasure that on April 13th of the coming year, George M. Bolling—one of the founders of our Society and for 15 years the Editor of Language—will celebrate his ninetieth birthday. On this happy occasion, we who have just spent three days enjoying the long-range results of his vision join his many other friends and pupils in wishing him undimmed prosperity. May he continue for many years as the youngest in spirit of Homeric scholars and the best-loved member of the Linguistic Society.

The resolution was unanimously adopted and the meeting was adjourned.

The complete list of papers presented at this meeting follows:

1. Robert A. Hall Jr. (Cornell University): Italian [z] and the converse of the archiphoneme. Discussion by Cross, Malkiel, Trager, Hill.
2. Antonio Tovar (University of Illinois): Classification of the Mataco Group in the Western Chaco. Discussion by Cross, Trager.
3. Emmon Bach (University of Texas): Some problems of order in a generative grammar of German. Discussion by Longacre, Marchand, Trager.
4. Wilson B. Bishai (School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University): Semivowels and Arabic morphology. Discussion by Faust, Garvin.
5. Laurence C. Thompson (University of Washington): Some stress patterns in American place names. Discussion by Kepke, Hall, Hill, Ward, Trager.
6. Curtis Blaylock (University of Texas): Metaphony in Old Spanish strong perfects. Discussion by Marchand, Malkiel.
7. Joseph R. Applegate (University of California, Los Angeles): The Phonemes of Kabyle. Discussion by Lees, Marchand, Joos, Wang.
8. Howard Garey (Yale University): Evidence for internal open juncture in Proto-Western Romance. Discussion by Bloch, Marchand, Malkiel, Haugen, Hall, Newton.

9. E. Adelaide Hahn (Hunter College): Hittite sarhh- equals Indo-European ser-. Discussion by Pisko.
10. Kenneth G. Chapman (University of California, Los Angeles): Stress-conditioned syntactic alternation in Norwegian. Discussion by Haugen, Pisko.
11. Harold L. Klagstad Jr. (Indiana University): The Opposition definite/non-definite in South Slavic verb morphology. Discussion by Garvin, Garey, Schenker, Pisko.
12. Heles Contreras (Indiana University): Phonemic patterning in child language. Discussion by Samarin.
13. Karl V. Teeter (Harvard University and University of California, Berkeley): Is the comparative method complete? Discussion by Garvin, Haugen, Swift, Samarin, Balint, Hall, Pisko.
14. William Shipley (University of California, Berkeley): Spanish elements in languages of Central California. Discussion by Malkiel, Trager.
15. Robert L. Allen (Teachers College, Columbia University): Distinguishing between different levels of analysis within syntax. Discussion by Trager, Garvin, Bloch, Nida, Faust, Balint.
16. Paul L. Garvin (Ramo-Wooldridge Laboratories): Evaluation procedure in linguistic analysis. Discussion by Longacre, Postal, Trager.
17. Ilse Lehiste (University of Michigan): The Opposition sharp vs. plain: two different acoustic manifestations. Discussion by Nida, Balint.
18. Ralph L. Ward (Yale University): Aphaeresis of i as a phonetic law in Modern Greek. Discussion by Panunzio, Moulton, Joos, Bruhn.
19. Herbert J. Landar (Los Angeles State College): Navaho optative morphemes. Discussion by Garey, Joos, Solá, Kaldegg, Trager.
20. Henry Lee Smith Jr. (University of Buffalo): Meter vs. rhythm in English prosody. Discussion by Wescott, Moulton, Joos, Bach.
21. Joachim Bruhn (University of Michigan): Problems of verbals in fourteenth-century English. Discussion by Smith, Joos, Kaldegg.
22. Henry M. Hoenigswald (University of Pennsylvania): Some extensions and modifications of the theory of IE semivowels.
